A: It's great that you're learning how to write programs, but you'll get much, much better answers if you stop trying to be clever with the RAR file extension and use something more standard. Use ZIP instead if you like. The reason for this is that RAR files are proprietary and protected. Using a different archive format gives you the ability to ignore the encryption. If you really are doing a programming assignment and want to use the RAR extension for any reason, you should do your research on how to remove the encryption. That's a lot harder than just using ZIP for it. I don't know what language you're using, but here is how you use ZIP.

import java.util.zip.*; public class ZipTest { public static void main(String[] args) { // Take your input as a String String source = "Caterpillar Factory Password.rar"; // Create the ZipOutputStream ZipOutputStream outputStream = new ZipOutputStream(new BufferedOutputStream(new FileOutputStream("/tmp/" + source))); // Create the entry and put the input data into it ZipEntry entry = new ZipEntry(source); outputStream.putNextEntry(entry); // Transfer the file's contents into the ZipOutputStream try { byte[] buffer = new byte[1024]; int length; while ((length = inputStream.read(buffer)) != -1) { outputStream.write(buffer, 0, length); } } catch (IOException ex) { ex.printStackTrace(); } // Close the entry 1cb139a0ed
