Abuse emailQ: Limit number of values in a dropdown list to certain values from another dropdown list I've got two dropdown lists. One contains the names of State (1-50) and the other contains the names of Country (1-50) I need to limit the country names in the Country list so that the country names do not exceed the number of States in the first list. So in other words, no country can ever have the same name as a state. What's the best way to do this? I have some VB code that I can post, but I'm not sure if this would work as I don't know the real names of the countries. Thanks in advance. A: Here's one approach. The problem is that a select element doesn't really support defining an "array" of select options. It can select a number of options, but it can't specify the "size" of that array. The option to limit the size of the second select is to add a property to the country list that is a number indicating the largest state number in the first select. That number can then be used to limit the number of options from the second list. Once the user has chosen a state, the second list can be cleared and the user can't accidentally choose an invalid country. A simple example... New York California 4bc0debe42
