Category:FIFA (video game series)Q: Should I purchase new hard drives and re-install Ubuntu I am currently running Ubuntu 12.04 on a Dell XPS with a 1TB hard drive. This computer has only been running for about a year and now I can barely install any applications due to lack of storage space. I would like to install a new 2TB hard drive and use it for my OS and user data. But I'm concerned about a possible hard drive failure. I know there's a chance of such an event, but in any event, I would be planning on spending 5 years on this machine. Is it better to have everything on one hard drive or separate? What factors do I need to consider for this type of scenario? A: You have a couple of options. Run Ubuntu off your old 1TB hard drive and install Ubuntu on the 2TB hard drive. That way all of your data is on one drive, and if you do have a hard drive failure you only lose your data. Do a bit of research on how to do a manual installation of Ubuntu. You should be able to do this without having to reinstall Ubuntu. GAPDH as a loading control. (TIF)

They will have to create a diversionary story to explain away their short shorts. Or their excessively loose dress, or their excessive bling. When it comes to the use of the title, "Dr." when their only certification is "Let's Go to the Doctor." Or, when you see a young person who has to make excuses for saying "house" instead of "home." (You know what I mean.) And don't even get me started on the term "Cleveland Cleaver." When a man's pants don't quite fit his butt-crack, he pulls his pants up a bit. This is not a term of endearment. They don't call him "The Lipps." "The point is," concludes Spindler, "I don't think parents are more or less hypocritical than anyone else. The hypocrisy, the effort at hypocrisy, is right there in the genes."Q: Have a plugin included in my user script I have made a minor plugin for the Greasemonkey user script manager. You can install it as a UserScript. It simply appends the data from the user script. I've made it as an extension point so that other plugins can extend the logic. So the actual problem I have is that I would like to have the data my plugin adds be "visible" to the user script. For example, when my plugin is installed, a user script might have an instanceof type of my.plugin.name. This way, if I have a new instance of my.plugin.name on the page, it gets added to the array.
