In the distant future, a remote colony of Earth's stranded descendants settled on a remote star. The colony ship is fast approaching the very edge of the star's tremendous gravitational field. As the ship enters, the planet's gravity is deflected by the planet's mass, causing the world to collapse in on itself. As the stars arches fall into the planet's surface, the moon-sized world is crushed to form a mighty moon that orbits the world. A gap is formed between the moon and the planet, filled with a rich atmosphere and a surface full of wonders. The Tides of Farronel is a visually stunning new game, with all your favorite roguelike elements incorporated into a smooth, high quality narrative game. Your destiny lies on a distant planet: You're on a mission to solve the riddle of the mission on a distant planet. But even after spending several weeks of arduous exploration, you have yet to find the answer. The universe is a mysterious place, the planet is vast and mysterious, and your mission is filled with bounty. Best of all, the planet is full of secrets waiting to be uncovered. But in order to find the solution to your riddle, you must navigate the planet's terrain and interact with its inhabitants. Explore the planet's vast surface: The planets surface is filled with not just life, but also danger. Explore for loot. Explore for answers. Explore for trouble. You're moving as quickly as you can to reach your destination, but you also need to take care to not be seen. You don't want to get detected by the kingdom's army of guards. And even though exploring the planet is dangerous, if you make it to the end of the planet, you will find a mysterious artifact which will yield the information you seek. NPCs - The Treasures of the Planet You may have noticed the inhabitants of the planet. They aren't working for the kingdom. The kingdom's army of guards is not prevalent. Rather, you will find that the planet is split into two factions. The kingdom controls the kingdoms, while the rebels control the planets population. The people of the planet are not content to live in either of the kingdoms. The two factions have attempted to make war on each other for years, but can never seem to overcome their differences.
