In the past I asked several questions and they were mostly answered by a moderator (the very first time I asked the question one of them was without a bounty - I did not realize this at the time and that answer was accepted). Now I often get several answers to my questions in a short time, and in most cases they all have some merit. That should be fine for the OP, but sometimes the most useful and complete answer comes from a moderator, and this is not easy to detect. So how can a moderator leave a comment telling me which of my questions the most complete answer came from? This problem happens only with questions that were answered before a bounty was started. A: I believe users with less than 50 reputation on any Stack Exchange site cannot access moderator flags. One of your posts you are considering has already been deleted, the other may have been locked, at which point there are no more moderator flags available for the post. ZM4668, a new quassinoid from the stem bark of Zanthoxylum chiloperus. ZM4668, a new quassinoid derivative, was isolated from the stem bark of Zanthoxylum chiloperus. Its structure was determined by interpretation of NMR and MS spectral data. To compare the structure of ZM4668 with that of chiloperine, a quassinoid isolated from the same plant, their structural analogies and differences were also discussed.Evolution of t(8;21)(q22;q22) in acute myeloid leukemias: comparative cytogenetic, R-banding, and fluorescence in situ hybridization studies. We have analyzed the t(8;21)(q22;q22) in five patients with acute myeloid leukemias (AML) at diagnosis. We have also studied their evolution, differentiating the two types of t(8;21) in AML. To assess the association of gestational diabetes mellitus (GDM) with the risks of preeclampsia and gestational hypertension. This was a case-control study conducted at the university hospital level, including 69 women with preeclampsia, 74 women with gestational hypertension, and 147 healthy controls. We evaluated the odds ratio of preeclampsia and gestational hypertension according to the incidence of GDM, adjusted for maternal age, prepregnancy weight, parity, and family history of hypertension. The risk of preeclampsia was 3.43 times higher in women with GDM than in those without GDM, even after adjustment for maternal age (odds ratio, 3.43; 95% confidence interval, 1.84-6.41). The risk of gestational hypertension was 2.95 times higher in women with GDM (odds ratio, 2.95; 95% confidence interval, 1.43-6.06). GDM is associated with an increased risk of preeclampsia and gestational hypertension.Q: Android app actually running on the real device, not on the simulator? I don't know why I am confusing myself, but I actually think that the app I developed in Android Studio is running on the real device, instead of the simulator. I made this to clarify my doubts: I opened the app in the emulator ( I noticed that the link that the emulator showed was that of the android studio app (appnotavalid.com/5ef26d2b2da76cf2), and not that of the app, as it is supposed to be ( 0cc13bf012
